4 Representative office

We provide Representative office of a foreign business entity in Vietnam (referred as “Re-presentative Office”) means a subsidiary unit of the foreign business entity, established in accordance with the law of Vietnam in order to survey markets and to undertake a number of commercial enhancement activities permitted by the law of Vietnam. Representative Office will need to apply and obtain the establishment license; and have a seal bearing the name of the representative office.

Setting up a Representative Office is less complicated than setting up a company in Vietnam. The Vietnam Department of Trade will be approving the establishment of Representative Office in Vietnam while Vietnam Ministry of Planning and Investment will be the State agency that coordinate the setting up a company in Vietnam. The time duration to establish a Representative Office is shorter than to establish a company. There are fewer conditions to meet than conditions in setting up a company in Vietnam. The main difference between a Representative Office and a company in Vietnam is that the Representative Office could not directly conduct profit making activities.
